Dr. Paul Nicholas Jacquin

COOKEVILLE — Dr. Paul Nicholas Jacquin, M.D., 74, of Cookeville, Tennessee, passed away Tuesday, Feb. 19, 2019, at his home surrounded by his family and loved ones.

Paul was born in Joliet, Illinois, Saturday, March 25, 1944, to the late Marian Bernice Jacquin and Paul Benjamin Jacquin.

Paul married Susan Jane Gilbert-Knutson Jacquin on March 19, 1994, in Salem, Oregon.

Paul is survived by his wife and her daughter, Julie; his two daughters, Emilie Schreiber of Poway, California, and Susan Kranitz of Las Vegas, Nevada; his two granddaughters, Allie (15) and Evie (12) Schreiber; and his sister, Susan Fulton of Brandon, Mississippi.

Dr. Jacquin came to Cookeville in 1996 to provide much-needed cancer care to the Putnam County area. He was the first full-time cancer specialist at the Cookeville hospital, and for the first three years saw patients five days a week, took care of hospitalized cancer patients every day and was available seven days a week to both his patients and other physicians. He continued this high standard of cancer care with only minimal help for the next 10 years until other medical oncologists were added to the hospital staff.

In addition to providing high quality and compassionate cancer care to all of his patients, he also worked behind the scenes to improve the quality of care, both through formal participation on hospital committees, and informally, improving lines of communication with regional medical centers and pharmaceutical companies.

His honest caring of his patients and commitment to their best care was evident with every patient who he saw. Similarly, he cared deeply for his family with much love and devotion.

He was a salutatorian graduate of Crete-Monee High School in Crete, Illinois, Michigan State University and the University of Illinois in Chicago Medical School.

A celebration of life for Dr. Paul Nicholas Jacquin, M.D., will be held Saturday, April 6, 2019, at Bell Hall Auditorium/ Whitson-Hester Nursing Building at Tennessee Technological University, at 1 p.m., with full military honors.

You may give in memory to The Cancer Center Foundation at Cookeville Regional Medical Center or The American Cancer Society.
